The course description for BIO 1100, 1200 should be changed as follows:

FROM:

A one-year, two-semester course in human anatomy and physiology. Examines complementary relationships between structure and function; dynamic aspects, integration of organs and organ systems in the maintenance of normal functioning of the whole organism. Dissections and other laboratory experiences including computer-assisted study of physiological principles.

This course does not satisfy the Biology major elective requirement.

TO:

Not recommended for non-science majors. A one-year, two-semester course in human anatomy and physiology. Examines complementary relationships between structure and function; dynamic aspects, integration of organs and organ systems in the maintenance of normal functioning of the whole organism. Dissections and other laboratory experiences including computer-assisted study of physiological principles. This course does not satisfy the Biology major elective requirement.

Justification:

The justification for this change is to help non-science students avoid registering for a class intended for biology majors. Many non-science majors register for this course in an attempt to earn Pathways science credit, but this is a grave disservice to them as they are not usually adequately prepared to succeed in this course.
